Continuing south we spend two nights at Kaohsiung, famous for its street art scene, and the wonderful pavilion-lined Lotus Pond. A high speed train then whisks us back to Taipei, our base to explore the scenic mountain village of Jiufen where traditional teahouses line the winding alleyways. Next stop is South Korea, where our visit is timed to coincide with its cherry blossom season. We begin with a three-night stay in the port city of Busan, a springboard for the town of Jinhai, which is particularly picturesque at this time of year, as blossoms bloom alongside the Yeojwacheon stream.
